

Community Level Prevention Planning Template

Define your community/ies

What community connections do you already have?
What community connections do you still need to make?
Who is doing work related to the root causes of sexual violence?
Where is prevention most needed?
What communities are ready to engage in sexual violence prevention?

Selected community/ies:

Learn about the community/ies

What do you already know about how the community experiences SV? And what their needs and strengths are?

Or where can you find this information?

What would you like to know about how the community experiences SV? And what their needs and strengths are?

How might you collect any gaps in information or who might already collect that data?

Identify stakeholders and allies

Who is already doing SV prevention in the community? Or how might you find out?

Who is working in aligned fields in the community who might be an ally?

Who ultimately has the power to make policy/practice changes in your community? (You'll want them on board from the beginning)

How might you build relationships with community stakeholders? What role might they have in planning, implementing, and evaluating?

Consider your focus population for your prevention effort. How can you include their perspectives in your planning and evaluation?

Determine priorities (you may refine this when planning with the community begins)

What are your program goals? (i.e., what are you hoping to change?)
What specific type of SV are you looking to prevent?

Potential strategies (you may not get here until planning with the community begins)

What program/strategy might you engage in that would accomplish that goal/s?
What is your theory of change? (What research or framework are you basing your planning on?)
